

Any effort to subvert Indiana's privacy law would be a terrible mistake. The right of citizens to be free of unwanted intrusion into their lives by telemarketers is a cherished benefit. Since the Indiana law went into effect we have been able to enjoy dinner and quiet evenings free of constant harrassing calls.